The Organisers, British Chess, accept no responsibility for any loss, theft or accident during the event. Parents or carers are responsible for their own children during the event and ample space is available for parents to stay for the day. Not every parent needs to stay but every child needs a designated adult to take responsibility for them and their general behaviour and in case of a medical emergency or accident. If in exceptional circumstances it is not possible for a parent or another adult to stay for all or part of the day advance permission needs to be agreed with the organisers in writing and emergency contact details given. This would only be considered for children aged 10 or over that the parents considered mature enough to stay on their own. The organisers are not liable for the behaviour, actions or damage caused by any child, including those left alone. Photos of the children may be taken by the organisers in the playing hall. These may be published on chess websites or in chess related articles. If you're not happy for photos of your child to be used then please email us before the start of the event. Your email address may be used to send chess related information.
